THIS IS MANHATTANVILLE

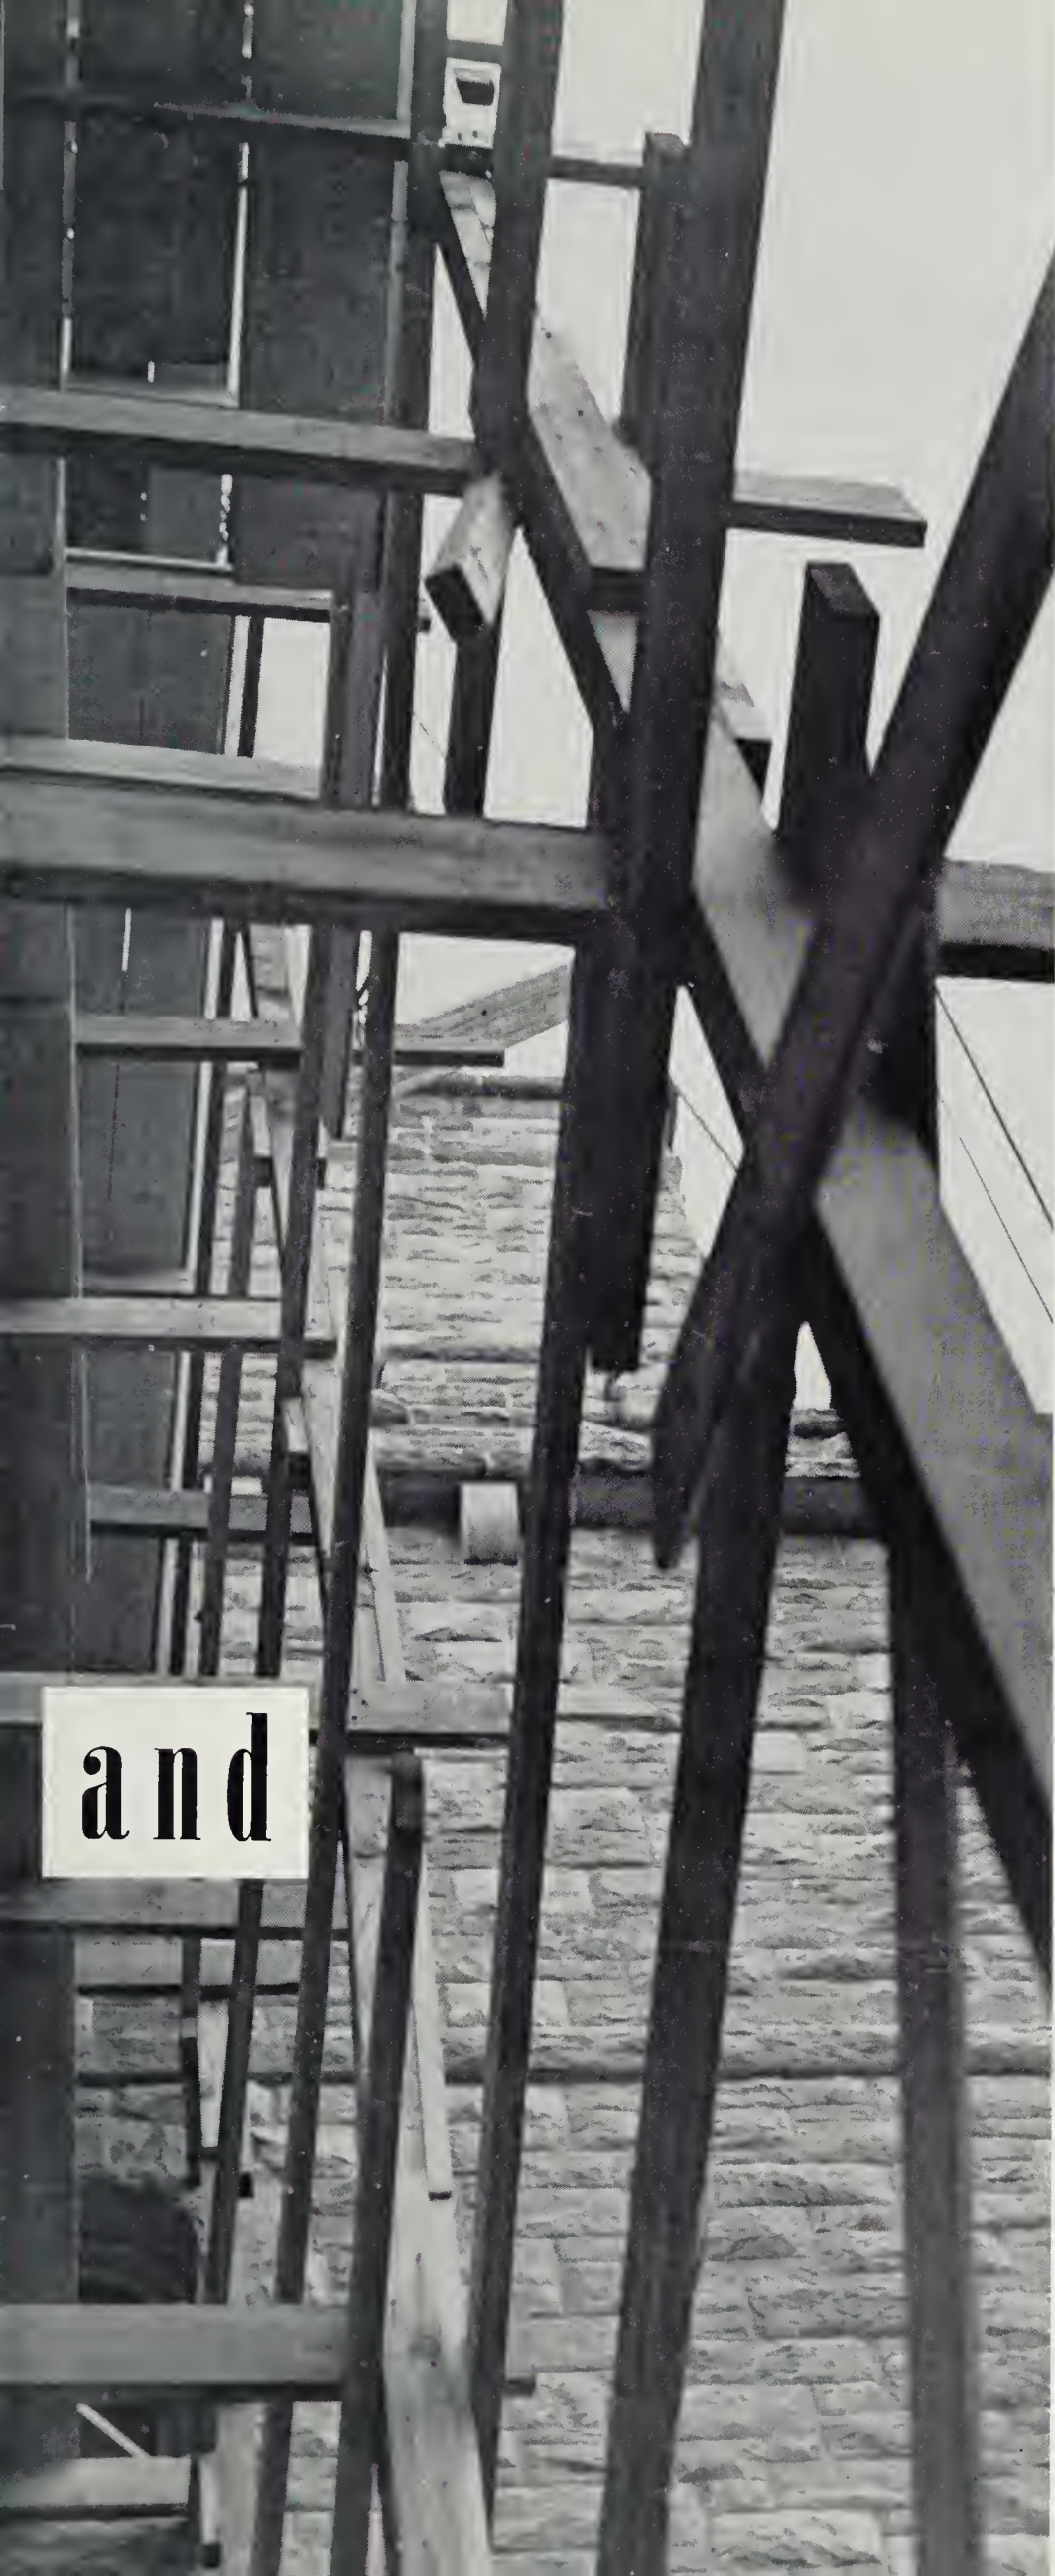

NOT ONLY FOR 1952...

...but for

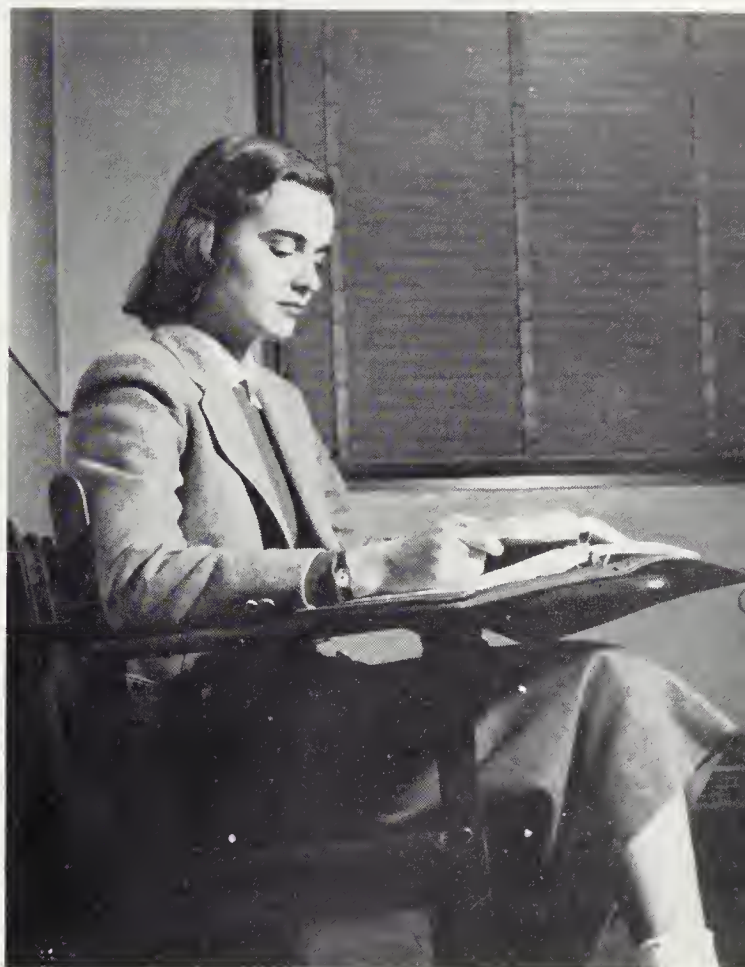

YESTERDAY

TOMORROW

For every student who has walked

...thru its
GATES

under the ARCH

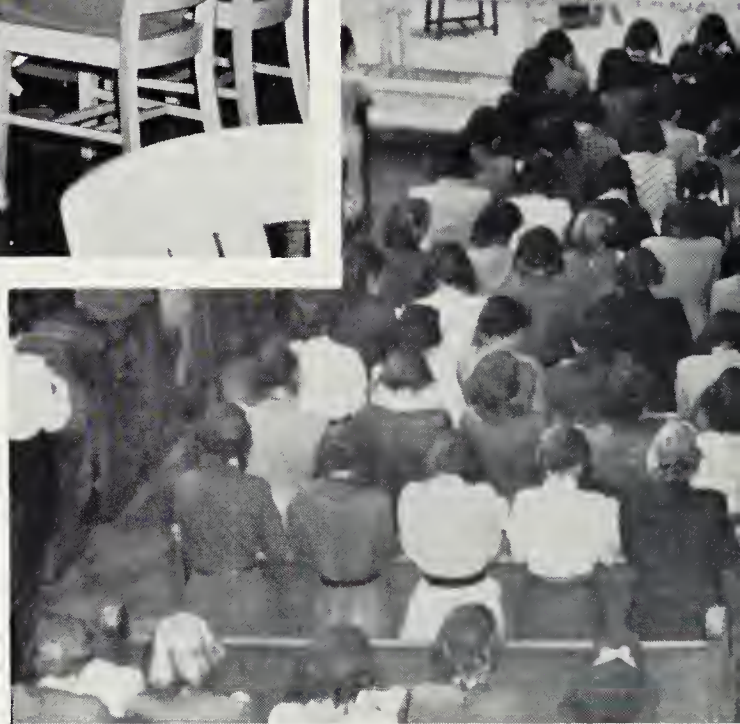

into its HEART

For every STUDENT

who has WORKED

... PLAYED

... and PRAYED here

We Dedicate...

This is Manhattanville, the same—yesterday, today, and tomorrow. What Reverend Mother Hardey built so beautifully and on so firm a foundation has grown into more than a college; it has become a city of love. This city, because it is founded in love, will never cease to grow.

The year of 1952 brings great changes to the Manhattanville we love. In September, most of us will return to a new Manhattanville, the Manhattanville of Purchase. We will walk to Mass, to classes, to the library along new paths. But although the paths may be strange, they will guide us as surely as before.

We will find much at Purchase that is not new. The spirit of love fostered by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, through devotion to the hearts of Our Lord and His Immaculate Mother—this spirit is as old as Manhattanville itself. It transcends places and times, and hallows the traditions to which we become attached.

Purchase will mean to us not so much a beginning as a growing. For this reason, the seniors will hold a special place there, as will every alumna of the old Manhattanville. For Manhattanville is always home to those who have lived there, to those who have worked, played and prayed within its walls.

And because the new Manhattanville means growth, we wish to pay tribute in the 1952 TOWER to Reverend Mother Hardey, who began the work of building a college that has become our way of life. To Reverend Mother Gertrude Bodkin, who has carried on this same tradition, we dedicate the 1952 TOWER on the occasion of her Golden Jubilee.

We Applaud...

When it comes to real loyalty and a spirit of good fellowship, nothing can beat Manhattanville's faculty. From all parts of the world, they come to give us the benefits of their talent and experience. And the interest they show in their students goes beyond the classroom—their interest lies in our future.

We owe to our faculty more than can be measured by a term mark or by a thesis grade. Through personal example, they have helped us to enrich not only our minds but our characters. Cultures that derive from all parts of the world meet in Manhattanville's faculty to form a united family with a diversity of ideas and opinions.

Might it be that a professor's most valuable asset is his sense of humor? At Manhattanville we have ample demonstration of that; for our faculty members show us their lighter side by bringing to the Faculty-Student party a genuine sense of the ridiculous, and by composing their own "serenades" for special occasions.

The wrath of Achilles . . . causes Mr. Lloyd B. Holsapple, professor of the classics no wrath.

The whole world is a stage . . . Miss Gloria Jaffer, instructor in speech reads over a script in the Little Theater.

The psychological explanation . . . is demonstrated by Dr. John O'Hara, professor of psychology.

Time out for talk . . . in the faculty room, Mlle. Géhin and Signora delle Donne relax after a long afternoon.

And then he said . . . Mr. Morrissey gives a graphic description to Mr. Modzelewsky and Mr. Mira as they enjoy that one o'clock smoke.

Look at the record . . . Miss Fleming and Dr. Haggerty go over papers during a free period in the chem lab.

Not according to the TIMES . . . Miss Cave and Mlle. Alexieff compare notes with Miss Calvo as they wait for the opening of a faculty meeting.

Let's add a little more . . . Mrs. McGuiness and Miss Alscher work on an after-class experiment of their own in the biology lab.

For the job with a future . . . Miss Rogers can always be counted on for practical and generous advice.

18654 Wildemere Avenue, Detroit 21, Michigan

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Grosse Pointe, Michigan

MAJOR: Psychology

MINOR: Education

Never too busy to sympathize, never too hurried to help, Madelyn has been a giver of self to Manhattanville. Her enthusiasm and her genuine charity have found expression in work among children; and in all things, Madelyn is open-handed with her time and talent.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARADE, 1952

SENIORS

Jeanne Sheridan
Senior Class President

Four years seem like a long time, until they're over. To the class of '52, those years have sped by and now are gone. As the "52 pickups" in freshman year, they picked up more than slam hands for their sophomore hazers; they picked up the Manhattanville way of life, and found that it was a good way. The sorrows of endless chair-carrying were outweighed by the first thrills of success when '52 turned movie producers for their freshman class entertainment.

The tables turned, they came back to Manhattanville in September as sophomores, with their war paint glowing. In the guise of "colossal chiefs", they put the new natives through a three-day Indian raid, before finally agreeing to smoke the pipe of peace.

Sophomore year is the year of surveys, from Beowulf to Bismarck. But this was the year when '52 found time, between overlapping quizzes and papers, to bring "The Littlest Angel" down to earth. The tiny cherub with his tarnished halo and box of trinkets for the Christ Child captured the hearts of the whole college.

"In the still of the night" sophomores sang farewell to their sister class. With Becky leading them in Serenades, '52 brought their underclass years to a harmonious close.

Nancy Moran
Senior Class Vice President

Adding a little spice to the conversation . . . U. Kirk, J. Sheridan, L. McCann, and N. Moran exchange a bit of conversation in the Tea House.

When the Deep Purple Falls . . . M. Middlemiss, C. Price, and P. McGrath call it a day in the locker room.

Hope it's only a practice! . . . B. Francis, J. Mullen, Y. Y. Liu learn what to do when "Series 12" rings.

Taking over Lower Deck as their new headquarters and the TOWER as their new project, '52 launched junior year. They wondered what had happened to all the spare time predicted for them, but had to admit that "no Saturday classes" was a cherished reward. And who could forget the concentrated effort of the whole class, as the spring wore on, to pick just the right thesis topic?

"This is the Army" was the password when '52 called the roll, prophesying military careers for the departing seniors. Now it was their turn to step up in the ranks, to take the lead as "first-class."

Tiger, tiger . . . eavesdrops on the congenial chatter of E. McHugh, K. Sellers, and S. Glocke.

Nothin' could be finer . . . than a song fest in the senior room. J. Connors, S. Herman, and N. Salisbury gather round A. Harrington at the piano.

This year, with Jeanne and Nancy at the controls, and with Mother Byles piloting the course devotedly, as she has for four years, '52 weathered the storm of senior duties and responsibilities. On the winning side, they scored the more-than-successful Student-Faculty Party and the equally successful Bridge Tea, then carried off the hockey cup for their fourth straight year. There was no losing side—as the seniors leave, they chalk up a winning score that will stand unchallenged.

'Twas the first day of Christmas . . . and vacation begins for E. Niedringhaus and N. Hickey.

Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble . . . T. Van Bourgondien, N. Shevell, and C. Kennedy tussle with the bunsen burner in chem lab.

Faraway places . . . might be in store for B. Sommer, M. Harlien, J. O'Brien, and V. Schmidt as they get into gear for a drive.

Either a match or a penny . . . would ease the anxiety for M. Becker, J. Kammerer, J. Baldwin, and J. Connors as they take a breather between bridge hands.

A little knowledge . . . is gained in a free period by B. Buchheister, B. Murray, and M. Rivas as they window-sit in the day-hops' lounge.

Something light for the weekend?
 . . . M. Fitzgerald helps J. Danahy and I. Loynaz find a good book.

"How did you do in Politics?" . . .
 M. J. Dognin, M. Eagen, R. Hume, and N. Labourdette discuss the political question.

Friday night at home . . . K. Tindall,
 M. Mullin, K. Mooney, and N. Salisbury start cooking on all burners.

A student's dilemma . . . L. Glynn and T. Ugaya wait their turn as
 M. Weber goes to discuss a conflict with the dean.

Check and double check . . . is the order of the day as B. Guida, assisted by M. L. Villarama and B. Hinzmann, packs for a weekend.

"Subway, anyone?" . . . P. delle Donne, A. M. Bilello, N. Labourdette, and V. Cardone take their time at the end of a long day.

Something blue-white . . . on R. Sanman's third - finger - left - hand catches the eye of S. Megargee, V. Maloney, and M. H. Stewart.

Making it official . . . C. Everett, R. Buck, and G. Lawson-Johnston sign out in the day-hops' book.

Thesis-minded seniors . . . E. Lindsay, P. J. Hope, and B. Ferris dabble in footnotes.

Audubon 6-9300! . . . S. Rush receives a surprise call as M. Morgan listens in.

It isn't all work! . . . M. Spagnoli, C. Baffigi, and M. Skelly find time to relax.

JUNIORS . . . counting the hours

"Let's harmonize" . . . and '53 has done just that, with the familiar barbershop strains echoing this year through the depths of Lower Deck instead of Plaza. Harmony has become our trademark both literally and figuratively; and as Juniors we tried to apply it to the difficult and the easy tasks, the work as well as the play. The housewarming party was our first problem. Sandwiches and coffee and a college-wide invitation to share in the entertainment put the "villains" in a party mood.

Cries of "Another paper!" could be heard, as the cold weather brought with it not only football weekends but closed weekends. And "this-your-TOWER" became the order of the day. Conscious of its importance as the last TOWER to be published at Manhattanville, we all worked to make it a lasting remembrance. Those who couldn't tackle write-ups, offered to type; and those who couldn't type, learned how. Letters were stamped, pictures captioned, and pages numbered by all who wished to give their best to '52 and to Manhattanville.

Looking back, we see Junior year as the time when we first fully appreciated our share in Manhattanville. Added responsibilities and more difficult work were made lighter by notices in our own "glass case", and by those early-Saturday-morning gatherings in the tea house.

With so much to remember and so much to expect, with "Mother B's" loving encouragement and the leadership of Phyl and Slats, '53 is ready to say goodbye to the old Manhattanville and hello to the new.

SOPHOMORES . . . counting the days

"All the world's a stage", and the world of Manhattanville is no exception. When '54 made their entrance as sophomores, the setting was familiar and the cast well-schooled.

Regretfully, they said goodbye to Mother Brady, grateful for the one short year she had spent among them. And on registration day, '54 welcomed their new warden. From the very beginning, Mother Hargrove made a place of her own in their hearts.

Hazing is that short but satisfying period when sophomores cast off the last links with their own freshman year. '54 did it with a vengeance this time, organizing a colonial army of new freshmen who went through a rugged two-day maneuvers before they finally passed the test.

That flair for the dramatic shown in freshman year was proven again with '54's success in the inter-class play contest. "Seven Women" with Alice Gray in the lead, took both the top honors.

Serenades is a gift to the seniors composed of melodies that are carefully selected, edited and polished. The result is a be-ribboned package that has in it the joy of giving and the sadness of saying goodbye.

At the torchlight procession, when sophomores take the symbol of continuation from the seniors, they say a goodbye of their own—a goodbye to underclass years. Wally and Kuse have led '54 devotedly; and in taking up the torch of their sister class, they will carry it with the same devotion to the new Manhattanville.

FRESHMEN . . . counting the years

With entrance exams safely passed and name tapes stitched in place, each member of the class of '55 reached 133rd and Convent Avenue, according to directions. Whether she came from Peru or Peoria, it made no difference; Manhattanville took her to its heart.

Juniors had a chance to play "big sister" for a week of tests, talks and tours. Orientation week at Manhattanville has a way of making anyone feel at home, but for '55 their new found sense of ease was disrupted suddenly by the "en masse" arrival of a baggage-laden college. Taking their turn as bellhops, '55 soon learned that this was only the beginning. "Chairs" was a freshman challenge they met with characteristic zeal.

The Spirit of '76 was reborn when sophomores rallied the new recruits to a revolutionary hazing. Armed with fifes and drums, the "pip-squeak privates" were made to obey the orders of their commanding officers, "the genial generals."

In addition to the old standbys—Orientation, Hygiene and Gregorian Chant, freshmen were introduced to a world of extra-curricular activities.

Outstanding friendliness and the ability to take new situations in their stride have been the most striking qualities of our freshman sisters. With a true understanding of leadership and under Mother Dowd's spirited guidance, Gerli and Nancy will make the class of '55 a vital part of Manhattanville at Purchase.

For Those Who Have Shared The Work . . .

TO MARY WE PRAY . . .

E. de M. Council: M. Fitzgerald, N. Salisbury, C. Duchaine, B. Jenkins, J. Craig, M. Saito, E. Fisher, T. Ugaya, B. McDonnell, J. Slattery.

We live in an age of perplexity; but Manhattanvillains are fortunate in that they live in a college dedicated to Christ's Sacred Heart and to His Blessed Mother.

The Children of Mary find in her a timeless model, a loving mother who brings order and wisdom into our lives. But it is the aim of the Sodality of the Children of Mary to seek grace not for ourselves alone, but to be apostles. We learn under the guidance of Mother O'Byrne and the Council to rely on Mary, and to ask her to direct our lives, and those of others, to God.

DACIA VAN ANTWERP
Chairman of the Children of Mary

UNITY THROUGH SELF-GOVERNMENT . . .

Student Government: C. Kuser, N. Shea, P. Duffy, N. Moran, J. Sheridan (President), J. Slattery, G. Gahagan, M. Wallingford.

NATURE:
The Welfare Committee is a group of delegates representing the faculty and student body in equal proportion. Its aim is to maintain suitable standards in social intercourse. It provides opportunity for expressions of opinion, suggestions of faculty and students on matters of general welfare, and determines public opinion and contacts. It is empowered to impose general and penal regulations. Welfare Committee also handles Family Posts, etc.

CONSTITUTION OF THE WELFARE COMMITTEE OF MANHATTANVILLE COLLEGE OF THE SACRED HEART

SCOPE:
All that relates to good manners and the amount of social intercourse are the concern of the Welfare Committee, as well as matters regarding the founding, continuation and mutual relations of clubs and other organizations in as much as these affect the college.

Manhattanville is proud of its Student Government. Every student participates in its activities, shares its duties, and enjoys its privileges.

Through the college's elected council, we make our own laws and are responsible for upholding them. But Student Government means more than law enforcement; it means a unified college, a good and happy place in which to live.

Jeanne and Nancy have taught us that to live under law is to grow in freedom and maturity. Being guided by the self-rule of Manhattanville gives us a rule of life.

MEMBERSHIP:
The Welfare Committee is headed by a faculty chairman and a student chairman, who is the head of the Senior Class Council, the Warden and Class Council Chairman. Also the Housewarden and President of the Student Government.

MEANS OF ATTAINING THE END:

Welfare imposes sanctions to express disapproval of certain acts. The particular sanction imposed by Welfare is the SOCIAL CENSURE which is given by a majority vote of the Welfare Committee for a specific act. IT IS THE ACT, NOT THE INDIVIDUAL, THAT IS CENSURED.

THE SOCIAL CENSURE:

Each censure is cancelled after the expiration of NINETY days (including Sundays, excluding Christmas, Easter and summer holidays). Any student who incurs a censure within ninety days from the date of the censure is excluded from participation in college activities and is deprived of the right to vote in the election of the Student Government.

HARMONY THROUGH WELFARE . . .

In France they call it savoir faire; at Manhattanville it's Welfare. Working with the faculty and through the class councils, the Welfare committee aims at the maintenance of a well ordered campus life through the observance of Christian charity that comes from God's grace.

Welfare's sphere is truly comprehensive. From the supervision of elections to the condemnation of loafers at dinner, it functions to promote decorum and develop maturity throughout the student body. It encourages enthusiastic participation in all academic functions; it organizes extra-curricular activities; but most particularly, Welfare emphasizes the thoughtfulness and courtesy that make Manhattanville a place where ". . . the best is never too good and everything else is not quite good enough".

FAITH IN ACTION . . .

Catholic Action Council: Seated: P. Hope, J. Connors, M. Eagen, M. Saito (Chairman), M. Mullin, A. Harrington. Standing: L. O'Gorman, A. Kennedy, M. Fitzgerald, M. Parra, A. Fitzgerald.

Catholic Action is the expression of the true spirit of Manhattanville's City of God. Genuine charity pervades our campus life and under the direction of Masako Saito and the Catholic Action Council, "natives" give freely of their time in sharing with others the fruit of their college training.

Catechists teach the neighboring public school children; efficient leaders are continually busy with the Girl Scouts from Annunciation Parish. Friendship House affords opportunity for clerical work; the more nimble-fingered sew for Chaplain's Aid. Christmas baskets are packed annually for needy families, and Casita Maria summer picnics entertain crowds of appreciative youngsters. DISC and the Mission Study Club, together with the Minority Rights and the Citizenship Committees, provide a basis for action through lively discussions of prevalent problems.

Part-Time . . . M. Middlemiss and P. McGrath with A. Hanley and N. Middlemiss supervise a Girl Scout Party.

Catholic Action Financial Committee: Seated: M. Eagen (Chairman), T. Fitzgerald, J. Neri, A. Wall, S. Abbott, R. Sakrides. Standing: S. Hayes, S. Abeles, A. Sturges, M. Gara, E. McHugh, V. Maloney.

THE PRO AND CON OF IT . . .

Debating Club Officers: C. Duchaine, K. Tindall, M. Becker (President), A. Hannan.

In today's scheme of things it is not enough simply to know the truth. The ability to present facts convincingly to others is almost equally important. Manhattanville's Debating Club stimulates a true understanding of present problems and develops in its members powers of poise and persuasion. Weekly meetings have found Becky directing informal parlays in the Blue Room; and under Mother Parton's encouragement and guidance, Manhattanville played host again this year to Oxford University, besides competing with several other colleges. During the fall, one of our debating teams added to its laurels by reaching the semi-finals in the N. S. A. debates at Manhattan.

*Rebuttals and more rebuttals . . . C. Dooley, J. Solzbacher, and K. Mullan

EXITS

Pots of grease paint, dog-eared scripts, the flurry of dress rehearsals—the Dramatic Club! The year's activities began in a modern tone with The Builder of Eternity by Ann Conron and Jean Fox. The very starkness of the production intensified the power of the spiritual builder.

A little corner of New England was set down in the middle of Manhattanville with the arrival of The Late George Apley and his blue-blood Boston family.

With the coming of Christmas, a joyful happiness fills the air; and Liz McCann's adaption of Los Pastores fitted neatly into the mood.

No one had to take a "slow boat to China" this year, for China came to us in the spring. The Three-Fold Wisdom of Old Wang brought the charm of the Orient to every Manhattanvillain.

AND ENTRANCES...

And what will you give the new child? . . . E. Lindsay appeals to group of peasants in Los Pastores.

Dramatic meeting . . . J. Prosdocimi confronts F. Hanson in Los Pastores.

SHARPS AND FLATS . . .

Glee Club Christmas Carols in the Benziger Building.

Christmas time brought with it bells and holly, mistletoe and fragrant firs, and best of all, the Carols. From the green-decked gym came the songs of many nations—all united in their messages of joy to the world, while the Spanish Carols added the last bright sticker to a Christmas package.

But when the Christmas boughs had been burned and the last bell tucked away, the Glee Club turned its attention to romance. Guided by Mother Morgan's dynamic enthusiasm, and led by Joan Crowley's vibrant soprano, Manhattanville "Gondoliers" wended their musical way along the canals of Venice.

This year the voice of Manhattanville's Madrigals was not confined to the Heights, but was carried around the world on recordings made for the "Voice of America".

Glee Club Officers: B. Rizzo, J. McCarthy, J. Crowley, (President).

If you can sing it, I can play it . . . J. McCarthy, J. Crowley, and J. Caruso decide on Carols.

Wonder if we'll ever make front page . . . A. Benito, M. Parra, S. Ruiz, and E. Fuentes are momentarily diverted as they wait for Spanish Carols.

NFCCS AND NSA . . .

N. S. A. Representatives: B. Walsh, E. Trotter, K. Mullan, P. Hope (Chairman), A. Hannan.

Here at Manhattanville, Marie Mullin and Frannie Murphy represent us in N. F. C. C. S., which has recently become affiliated with Pax Romana, the International Movement of Catholic Students.

Since the birth of N. F. C. C. S., Catholic colleges are no longer isolated units; they have become national and international.

N. S. A., the National Students' Association, works for unity among college students. P. J. Hope and Katty Dunne are Manhattanville's delegates to N. S. A., which voices the opinions of all the students of the United States.

N. F. C. C. S.: J. Craig, F. Murphy, M. Mullin (Senior Delegate), A. Kennedy.

Clothing for everyone from grandpa to baby finds its way to the Relief Room. Each year, dozens of boxes of clothes start from Manhattanville to warm the hearts and lift the spirits of a war-torn world.

Through the efforts of Joan Craig, Relief Committee Chairman, and Mother Byles, faculty adviser, the Bridge Tea given for the benefit of D. P. students here on campus netted over $3000—a real Pot of Gold.

Two, please! . . . J. Craig watches proceeds mount while selling tickets to the Bridge Tea.

THE JOY OF GIVING . . .

Choir Officers: T. Ugaya, J. Roland.

Early every "Missa Cantata morning", as their less musical friends roll over for a last forty winks, the choir members gather in the Lower Lecture room for a final warm-up.

Mother Morgan's classic remark is, "Remember you are singing for God"; only an abundance of spirit and good will are necessary to become members.

A worn Liber is the choir member's Badge of Office, a front seat in the middle aisle her station, her privilege to join with the others as the ancient Gregorian Chant soars upward, praising God.

PARLANCE AND PRINTERS' INK . . .

With persuasive pens, and even more persuasive tongues, the English Club is a stimulating part of campus life.

Under the resourceful guidance of Mother Williams and the energy of its president, Paulita Buckley, the club decided on Drama as the theme. In heated discussions the English Club roasted well-meaning playwrights on the coals of criticism.

Periodically we found Mary Ann Harlien and her Essay staff huddled over typewriters, passing editorial judgment on the creative expression of the college.

“What, When, Why, and How”—this is the axiom of the journalist as well as the detective. With each issue of the Centurion, Manhattanville’s reporters put that axiom to work. Like sleuths tracking down the clues to a crime, they uncover details of the next prom, debate, or bridge-tea. Liz Fisher and her staff are headline-conscious and deadline-anxious whenever press time rolls around. Through them, the Centurion becomes a voice that speaks with timeliness and enthusiasm.

All the news that fits the print . . . M. A. Harlien, E. Fisher, and A. Hannan check the latest Centurion.

TOWER BOARD 1952

Gosh, I'm crazy about that . . . A. Conron, R. Slawson, J. Fox, and C. Steinbugler confer on Tower write-ups.

GAY-TIME

Frivolous Affairs: C. Duchaine, J. Connors.

Dance Committee: Front Row: V. Schmidt, B. Guida, P. Murphy. Back Row: T. Cadden, N. Keller, J. Regan, E. Hinzmann (Co-Chairman), R. Hume (Co-Chairman), J. Baldwin, M. Amberg, J. Horan.

PLAY-TIME

Athletic Association Officers: Front Row: E. Niedringhaus, K. Sellers (President), K. MacLellan, A. Hanley, Miss C. Holland, A. Wilcox. Back Row: M. F. McDonald, Mrs. J. Daughton, P. Burke, L. DiMarco.

Not all the smoke that emanates from the gym has its origin in the solarium or in the lounges. Intramural basketball competitions really do burn up the courts.

Manhattanville this season joined the newly-formed New York State Federation of Women's Athletic Associations, and sponsored an Athletic Tea for Catholic colleges.

Whether the order of the day is badminton or banquet, gaiety and good sportsmanship are the first rules. A big vote of thanks is due to Kate Sellers, Edie Niedringhaus and the board, to Miss Holland, Mrs. D., and above all, to Mother O'Gorman.

"Get away from your guard" . . . Miss Holland sends E. Niedringhaus into a game as A. Willcox and C. Tindall watch from the side lines.

Hockey Varsity: Kneeling: J. Rote, E. McHugh, K. Sellers (Captain), E. Niedringhaus, K. R. Hanley. Standing: A. Willcox, D. Taylor, M. Spellman, V. Devereux, M. J. Sullivan, O. Ryan, L. DiMarco, A. Johnston, E. Christmas, M. O'Keefe, K. MacLellan, B. Jenkins.

Basketball Varsity: E. Niedringhaus, K. Sellers, A. Willcox, A. Brady, B. Sloane, D. Taylor, B. Jenkins, A. Walters, K. Tindall, E. McHugh, (in center) J. Baldwin (Captain).

Aquatic Club Officers: E. McHugh (Captain) and P. Burke.

Lacrosse Varsity: Kneeling: V. Devereux, E. McHugh, E. Niedringhaus (Captain), K. Sellers, K. R. Hanley. Standing: E. Christmas, B. Sloane, A. Wall, O. Ryan, A. Johnston, B. Jenkins, K. MacLellan, J. Rote.

Tennis Varsity: J. Baldwin, (Captain), J. Kammerer, M. Spellman, B. Sommers, M. F. McDonald, A. Reynolds.

... For Those Who Have Shared The Fun

An eye for an eye . . . between dances M. Mitiguy and partner exchange glances over a glass of punch.

Accent on the rhumba . . . A. Benito and her date show how it's done the Puerto Rican way.

The Point is . . . Larry Davis, USMA, brings up an obviously interesting issue at the football dance.

Dance preliminaries . . . occupy D. O'Dea, who checks in M. F. McDonald and D. Driscoll before a tea dance.

And the band played on . . . B. Hinzmann, co-chairman of the Dance Committee, and date speculate on the turnout for the football dance.

C'est si bon . . . B. Walsh and M. Maginnis pause with dates for a refresher.

Manhattanville's roller derby . . . A. Reynolds, A. Gelderman, and M. Amberg add to the local color any afternoon at four.

The students' best friend . . . Jean Atkinson takes a message at the switchboard.

The power of words . . . T. Cadden, N. Keller, P. Lappin, and P. MacLellan collaborate on some college correspondence.

If this doesn't do the trick . . . K. Dunne and B. Burton stand back to admire the menacing TOWER poster they have put up as part of the subscription campaign.

*Take a box; it's tax exempt! . . . several members of the Junior Opera Committee, P. Leonard, H. Douaire, and P. Pack discuss Madame Butterfly.*

The eyes . . . tell their own story.

A study in solitude . . . B. Rooney gazes with incredulity at what goes into a typical locker.

Among our souvenirs . . . L. McCabe, F. Cummins, and C. Zum Brunnen bring the centenary pageant back to M'ville as part of the Parents' Day celebration.

Manhattanville comes out of the past . . . as the half-way mark in the history of the heights is represented in captions and pictures for the Parents' Day exhibit.

The gathering of the clan . . . Finds the college assembled to wish Mother O'Byrne a happy feast.

Tote that Barge, Lift that Bale . . . J. Rote, M. McDonnell, N. McCarthy, and A. Skakel discover that they are the "chair-carrying kind".

An economic crisis . . . Mr. Connelly and Paulita Buckley swing into a charade at the faculty party.

Alas, poor Yorick, I knew him well . . . Doctor Haggerty catches R. Slawson in one of her more elfin moods.

An about face . . . would reveal Mother Morgan as she conducts the Madrigals.

Watch it Mother, she's right behind you! . . . a group of students and faculty members join in musical chairs.

Academically well-groomed . . . seniors lead the way to Feast Wishes in the Little Theatre.

*But I never win anything . . . C. Castellini, J. Roland, and
P. Hurley admire the pot of gold at the Relief Bridge-Tea.*

4 on a hand . . . B. McGarry, M. Famiglietti, J. Larkin, and H. Douaire season afternoon off-hours with bridge in the junior room.

Rules and regulations a la Lower Deck . . . are posted by K. Dunne and A. Conron in the "junior glass case".

With this ring . . . P. Burke, E. Brockmann, R. Slawson, M. L. Ryan, and A. Hessel query as to the size, shape, and color of the class ring for '53.

Chop, Chop . . . T. Raick goes oriental as M. Saito teaches table etiquette with chop sticks.

TTr² . . . poses a puzzling charade at the Student-Faculty Party for B. Walsh, Miss de Arango, Mrs. Morsbach, J. McGarry, S. Abeles, and J. Connors.

First things first . . . the crossword juggle finds S. Hayes and M. McMahon with perplexed minds in the tea house.

It's all in the game . . . A. Weston, C. Imbleau, and M. Dalton cast quizzical glances at J. Horan who is about to make a trick.

Tickets, please . . . R. Slawson has a greeting ready for every Bridge-Tea booster, as E. Flynn and M. Christ wait for their partners.

*Catching up on the "red letter days"
 . . . A. Eilers, T. Fitzgerald, and W.
 Kearney check the glass case.*

And so to bed . . . A. Sturges puts the gym key away for another day.

The TOWER Board Thanks . . .

Reverend Mother Fitzgerald, Mother O'Byrne, and Mother Weston for your much-appreciated stamp of approval;

Mother Bourneuf, the unofficial but indispensable member of our staff;

Mother Brady, without whom the spelling of names would have been an impossible task;

Miss Cave, for every minute you devoted to help us say just the right word;

Miss Todd, for graciously sacrificing your time for art's sake;

Mr. Frank Ball and Mr. E. J. Adomilli for solving our every printing problem with genuine interest;

White Studios and Delma, for bringing Manhattanville to life in your photographs;

Our advertisers and patrons, for not only financial but moral support;

Every junior who typed, captioned, campaigned to put the 1952 TOWER over the top.
